Service is important – ignore the requirements about effecting proper service in international cases at your peril! For instance, as between EU member states, service is an intrinsic part of the process of instituting proceedings so as to engage the lis pendens provisions (see Articles 16 and 19 of BIIr). Effecting proper service is critical to achieving jurisdictional priority. Our panel of experts will discuss:-

- a) Service requirements in their own jurisdiction;
- b) Service requirements outside of their home jurisdiction but within the EU;
- c) Service in a country which is a signatory to the 1965 Hague Service Convention;
- d) Service in a country which is not included in any of the above categories; and
- e) Incoming service of foreign documents in their own jurisdiction.

In cases involving two EU member states: EU Service Regulation (full name: “Regulation (EC) No 1393/2007 of the European Parliament and of the Council on the service in the Member States of judicial and extrajudicial documents in civil or commercial matters (service of documents), and repealing Council Regulation (EC) No 1348/2000”) will apply. Educational Programme— Alfonso XIII Hotel

Seville, 26th – 29th March 2015

THURSDAY 26th MARCH

09.00 – 9.15: Welcome and Introduction to the Educational Programme

Alberto Perez Cedillo, Alberto Perez Cedillo Spanish Lawyers and Solicitors (Spain)

09.15 – 9.45: Brief historical intro to Seville

Pr. James Davidson.

James Davidson is Professor of Ancient History at the University of Warwick. His first book, Courtesans and Fishcakes (1997) was described as “brilliant and original” by the New York Times, while the Los Angeles Times reviewer concluded “there could be no better popular history than this”. His second book, The Greeks and Greek Love (2007) won the Randy Shilts Prize, the Lambda Award and the Mark Lynton History Prize. He is a regular contributor to the Guardian Newspaper and the London Review of Books and occasionally makes appearances on TV talking about antiquity. For 2015-16 he was awarded a British Academy Fellowship to write a book on the Rise and Fall of the City of Athens. Eventually he hopes to write a book on History and Spain as a kind of antidote to Braudel, about the profound impact on economy society and culture of politics battles and events.

09.45 – 10.15: Introduction to Spanish Family Law

Spain has gone through great political, economic and legal changes in recent years and in certain areas provides some of the most progressive examples of family law legislation in Europe. It is also a very decentralised country with 17 Autonomous Communities. For that reason it can be difficult to get to grips with the variety of different regional laws. Spanish fellows will be introducing you to the varieties of family law in their respective regions.

Co- Chairs:

Alberto Perez Cedillo, Alberto Perez Cedillo Spanish Lawyers and Solicitors (Spain);

Elena Zarraluqui, Elena Zarraluqui Abogados (Spain);

Christopher Lee, Domenech Abogados (Spain).

10.15 – 11.00: Brussels IV Regulation – Implications on Family Law

The “Succession Regulation” (“SR”) has attempted to harmonise private international law rules for succession throughout the EU without significantly affecting the internal succession laws of Member States. The new regulation will have far reaching consequences that will affect family law even in those jurisdictions that have opted out. Through a practical case study we will examine its potential implications.

Peter Junggeburth, Junggeburth & Becker (Germany);

Fredric Renström, Lindskog Malmström Advokatbyrå KB (Sweden);

Carlo Rimini, Rimini Law Firm (Italy).

CASE STUDY:

Facts:

The spouses are Escamillo, of German nationality, and Carmen who is a national of your country. They are habitually resident in Germany under a German matrimonial property regime. They have two children of age and have signed the following matrimonial agreement before a German notary public:

- Agreement -

I. Matrimonial agreement

1. On property relationships

1.1 As regards the property relationships between us and in respect of third parties we designate as applicable law German law.

1.2 We exclude the German default property regime and agree on a separation of assets.

II. Agreement as to succession

1. We reciprocally appoint each other unrestricted and sole heir, regardless whether the first deceased is survived by heirs on intestacy. After the death of the survivor the estate of both is to pass to our common children. If one of our common children dies before the first of us deceases he/she is replaced by his/her descendants including adoptive children if they are.

2. If an heir on intestacy claims for compulsory portion after the first deceased, he and his descendants will not become heir of the survivor.

3. This agreement as to succession may be revoked unilaterally only in the case of divorce.

The marriage contract is properly registered at the civil registry.

Carmen dies having kept her nationality whilst she is still married to Escamillo, but they have become habitually resident in your country and all the assets of her estate including a property acquired in Seville by both spouses are under the separation of assets regime.

Questions to consider:

- 1. Is it possible in your country to reach an agreement similar to the one achieved by Escamillo and Carmen?*

2. Could there be any differences in the possible treatment of the case depending on the fact that Carmen dies before 17 August 2015 or afterwards when the Regulation comes into place?

11.00 – 11.30: Coffee break

11.30 – 13.00: In richness and in poorness: Tips and traps in international divorce and financial cases

Interactive participants' session. Pre-arranged round tables of 10 participants in the conference representing different jurisdictions dealing with a practical case lead by the panel. This session is designed to take a comparative look at competing family law claims in various jurisdictions to include the relevant procedural advantages and disadvantages. The session will focus on the practical aspects of conflict of laws and international litigation and a discussion will be led by a panel of experts with plenty of opportunity for the audience to contribute to the discussion.

CASE STUDY:

Escamillo and Carmen are married and they are nationals of your country. You act for Escamillo.

Carmen is an economist and an expert in hedge funds who has not worked in the past years because she does take care of the two children of the marriage, aged 10 and 13. She does not have any assets or income of her own.

Escamillo is a Real Madrid football player but he used to play for the Miami Dolphins. He has limited capital in USA, some investments in your country and an income of $300,000 a week.

Carmen loves Florida so they own a house there, where they are based from May to August when they are not travelling around the world.

The family lives in Madrid during the rest of the year.

In February, Escamillo tells you that he is having significant problems of communication with Carmen which has created serious problems in their marriage. He is starting to feel like divorce is the only option although he is not a hundred percent sure.

1. What advice will you give to Escamillo as to where he should consider taking action? What are his options?
2. Does your country have jurisdiction to file a separation or divorce petition?
3. What are the grounds for divorce in your country? Can Escamillo waive or opt out of divorce proceedings? If so, can Carmen still continue or institute a divorce claim?
4. Would your advice change in the event that Escamillo is served with divorce papers, issued in Madrid, a couple of weeks before he comes to see you?
5. Which country would have preference in pursuing the proceedings?

Suppose that Carmen and Escamillo decided to give a second chance to their marriage so divorce proceedings were not filed.

At the end of July, Escamillo is sold to the Warriors FC of Singapore. He moves there in time to start the new football season. The situation with Carmen has become impossible and he comes to visit you once again regarding divorce. Escamillo takes the children with him to Singapore as they are on holiday. Carmen decides that she will stay in Madrid. At the end of the summer the children inform their parents they would rather to stay with Escamillo in Singapore.

- 6. What do you advise Escamillo as to how he could have the children stay with him?*
- 7. Could you obtain emergency or interim orders about the children in your country pending a decision as to whether another country has jurisdiction over the matter?*
- 8. How might Carmen prevent Escamillo taking the children to Singapore and ensure the children stay with her? What are her chances of success?*
- 9. If Escamillo is able to take the children, how can Carmen ensure that she continues to be a part of the children's life?*
- 10. Does your country have jurisdiction to deal with maintenance claims arising from the breakup?*
- 11. What is the scope of the maintenance orders available in your country?*
- 12. Could you obtain emergency or interim orders about financial aspects for maintenance in your country pending a decision as to whether another country has jurisdiction over the matter?*
- 13. If a financial order for maintenance is made in your jurisdiction, would it be possible to request a modification of the order should the circumstances change?*
- 14. If an order for maintenance has been issued in Madrid, would it be possible to enforce it in your country? Would it also be possible to request a variation of the said order should the circumstances change?*
- 15. Assume that Carmen has decided to respect the wishes of the children. Would your advice for Escamillo change in relation to jurisdiction for any financial claims?*
- 16. Does your country have jurisdiction to deal with financial relief for property division arising from the breakup? What if Carmen is already in the process of obtaining a divorce in Madrid?*
- 17. What is the scope of the property division orders available in your country?*
- 18. Could you obtain emergency or interim orders about financial aspects for property division pending a decision as to whether another country has jurisdiction over the matter?*
- 19. If a financial order for property division is made in your jurisdiction, would it be possible to request a modification of the order should the circumstances change?*
- 20. If Carmen had already obtained an order for property division in Madrid, can she enforce this against Escamillo in your country?*
- 21. Would your courts be bound by a pre-nuptial contract which Escamillo and Carmen entered into in your country before their marriage? What if they entered into a post-nuptial agreement in Madrid earlier in February?*

13.00 – 14.00: Lunch break

14.00 – 15.00: International taxation: implications on divorce

The session will emphasize the need for tax planning in a variety of family dispute situations. With the significant costs associated with cross border litigation, settlement may seem like the most appealing solution. There are several tax traps for the unwary. The session will include three scenarios and will deal with different jurisdictions.

Co-Chairs:

Charlotte Butruille-Cardew, CBBC (France);

Alexander Carruthers, Hughes Fowler Carruthers (England).

CASE STUDY:

I. Carmen and Jose are nationals of your country. They own the matrimonial home and a house in the countryside. They have two children. Carmen has issued divorce proceedings.

1. Would there be any advantage in reaching an out of court agreement from a tax point of view?
2. What would be the most tax efficient solution for dealing with:
 - a. The ownership of the matrimonial home;
 - b. The life tenancy of the matrimonial home;
 - c. Spousal maintenance;
 - d. Children's maintenance;
- e. Effect one single payment or payment in instalments.

→ NB :

→ If one spouse is to remain in the family home but the other is to continue to have a financial interest in the property, how best to structure that arrangement from a tax perspective (right of use, retention of the house by a trust or a company, transferring shares to the children etc.) ;

How best to structure the transfer from one spouse to the other of any interest in an immovable property (either vacation home, family home or family investment): located in your jurisdiction? Located abroad? (For example, is it more efficient to transfer the property while the spouses are still married).

3. Importance of identifying what is what from a tax point of view in the agreement.
4. The implications of the matrimonial economic regime, if any.
5. The dissolution of the economic regime, if any.
6. Taxation of co-ownership/joint tenants and tenants in common.
7. Relevance of the wealth of each individual to achieve a tax efficient agreement.

→ NB :

→ How common are tax indemnities in your jurisdiction to try to resolve issues? Do we think that giving a tax indemnity is a good or a bad thing?

8. Residency/Custody of the children and taxation benefits: What happens in case of a shared residency?
9. Would the solutions be any different if the spouses hold different citizenships or reside in different countries?

II. After the break-up, Carmen decided to stay in the country with the children but Jose decides to move abroad. They finally found an amicable solution and you are in charge of drafting the divorce agreement.

10. If any choice of jurisdiction was available, would you possibly advise them to register the divorce agreement in another country? Why? (Only tax implications should be considered).
11. What tax traps should they be aware of in such case? (Risks of double taxations for both recipient and payer, taxation applicable on the entire common assets, Transfer of properties at the time of the divorce etc.).
12. In your jurisdiction, is it possible to alter the rules of taxation in the divorce agreement (for example, is it legally valid to determine which spouse will support the taxation of the alimony/maintenance/spousal support).

III. EXPERT PERSPECTIVE: Jose owns a company which generates most of the wealth of the family and has a lot of value.

13. Would its value have to be assessed and any tax payable on its sale taken into account when calculating the assets of the parties?
14. What would your jurisdiction do – would they assume that the company would not be sold so no tax would be payable and its value is including any potential tax?
15. Or in the alternative, would they say the real value of the company includes any tax payable on its sale?

FRIDAY 27th MARCH

09.00 – 10.30: International pre/post nuptials and marriage contracts

This session will examine the organisational and legal challenges which lawyers face when handling wealthy families and the prospect of international marriage as well as reviewing the alternatives available in a range of European and other jurisdictions. The session will tackle the practical issues arising by discussing a practical case.

What happens on divorce if there is a prenup in countries where are not absolutely binding?

When can a marriage contract be challenged?

Co- Chairs:

Emma Hatley, Stewarts Law (England);

John Harding, Harding & Associates (California, USA);

Isabelle Rein-Lescastereyres, BWG Associés (France).

CASE STUDY:

Facts:

You have been contacted by Escamillo who is both a national and habitual resident of your country in order to represent him.

He is consulting you because he is considering entering into a pre-nuptial agreement with his future wife (who is domiciled in California and habitually resident in London, England and Wales), in advance of their marriage in London in late September 2015. They are going to live between London and your country.

The parties may at some stage relocate to Spain during the course of their marriage. Escamillo is therefore looking to protect his position in the event of divorce proceedings.

Questions to consider:

1. Please provide Escamillo with some initial advice as to the position in your country in relation to prenuptial agreements (local and foreign) and their enforceability.
2. In order to conclude a pre or post-nuptial agreement, what formalities have to be observed in your jurisdiction:
 - 2.1. Independent legal representation?
 - 2.2. Full disclosure of assets and income at the time the parties are entering the agreement?
 - 2.3. Agreement must be presented to the parties a certain time period before signing and/or the wedding (timescales)?

And what requirements as to form and execution do exist in your jurisdiction?

3. In which jurisdiction(s) would you recommend to Escamillo to enter into a pre-nuptial agreement? How will the court in your jurisdiction reconcile any inconsistencies between more than one agreement? Would you recommend separate agreements or a single agreement intended to be effective worldwide? What are the risk involved?
4. Can the provision of a marital agreement make provision that conflicts with what the law in your country would otherwise provide? Can the provision of a marital agreement make provision that conflicts with what a court in your country would otherwise provide?
5. Escamillo wants to include some specific content in the agreement. For each of those provisions he would like to know if it is possible and if a court would recognize and enforce such provisions in a divorce in your jurisdiction.
 - 5.1. Escamillo would like to choose a separation of property regime, or at least exclude his professional assets from the division in case of a divorce.
 - 5.2. Escamillo would like to exclude pension plans from the division of assets.
 - 5.3. Escamillo would like to include a provision limiting both spouses' potential claims regarding marital and post marital spousal maintenance claims.

- 5.4. Escamillo owns the future dwelling of the family. He wants to make sure that should his future wife decide to leave him he will be able to remain in the house and she will have to leave within a few weeks.
- 5.5. Escamillo would like to include a provision about shared physical custody of the children in case of a divorce.
6. Which law will govern the interpretation of each of the marital agreements if Escamillo and his wife divorce in your country? Your law? The law of the country where the pre-nuptial was signed? The law provided for by the agreement?
7. Can Escamillo and his wife in your jurisdiction agree in the agreement on a prorogation (choice) of jurisdiction regarding:
 - 7.1. Divorce?
 - 7.2. Division of marital property?
 - 7.3. Marital and post marital maintenance?
 - 7.4. Splitting of assets in pension plans?
8. And can Escamillo and his fiancée agree on a choice of law regarding:
 - 8.1. Divorce?
 - 8.2. Division of marital property?
 - 8.3. Marital and post marital maintenance?
 - 8.4. Splitting of assets in occupational pension plans?
9. Is there any difference in your country between the treatment of a bespoke (“tailor made”) marital agreement negotiated between the parties rather than a “default” marital property regime? What type of agreement does your country allow?
10. On what grounds can the validity of a pre or post nup agreement be contested in your jurisdiction? Does it make any difference if Escamillo’s wife signed the marital agreements reluctantly? Are there any vitiating factors that will negate the effect the marital agreements (or any of them) may have?
11. Are marital agreements binding or to what extent do the courts of your country retain any discretion to make provision on divorce?
 - 11.1. What happens if Escamillo’s wife suffers a serious disability during the marriage or there is another significant and unforeseen change (for the worse) in her situation after she has entered the marital agreement?
 - 11.2. What happens if Escamillo loses the majority of his wealth through ill-fortune or unwise investment? What if he can no longer afford to meet the provision due under the marital agreement?
 - 11.3. Would it make any difference if Escamillo’s wife sacrificed her high flying career during the marriage to raise a family?
 - 11.4. Can a marital agreement ever leave a spouse in a position of undue hardship? If not, what thresholds or criteria are relevant?
12. Escamillo wants to know if he could in time review or modify this marital agreement(s) and how to do it?
13. In your country is there a difference between an agreement entered into before the marriage and an agreement that is entered into after the marriage ceremony?

14. Does your country make any distinction between same-sex couple and opposite sex couple and their ability to enter into pre-nuptial agreements?

15. What (if any) future reforms or changes are anticipated in your jurisdiction?

10.30– 11.00: Coffee break

11.00 – 12.00: Cohabitation

Potential rights arising upon the breakdown of cohabitation. Pre-arranged round tables of participants in the conference representing different jurisdictions will deal with a practical case led by the panel.

CASE STUDY:

Facts:

Escamillo and Carmen have been cohabiting as a stable couple since 2009 in a house owned by Escamillo and adopted two children, now aged four and two, in 2011.

Escamillo's mother returned to Germany for a few weeks for Escamillo's birth. He has maintained strong connections with Germany and, indeed, his work obliges him to spend around two weeks a month there. In 2010 Escamillo and Carmen bought a comfortable apartment in Bonn. Carmen used to work full-time as an accountant but since the couple adopted the children she has been working from home on a part-time basis. This suits the family well, since the whole family can now split their time fairly equally between their house and the apartment in Germany. The children benefit from the time they can spend with their German cousins and grandparents when they are in Bonn.

The couple used to share the bills equally before the children came along. Since then, Escamillo, who earns 8,000 Euros monthly, has met the majority of the household expenditure. Carmen earns 1,000 Euros monthly. She is entitled, in addition, to certain state benefits which increase her income by 500 Euros monthly. The household bills include wages of their nanny, Juanita, whom the couple have employed since adopting their children. Juanita is paid around 200 Euros per week, depending on how many hours she works.

The house had been bought by Escamillo as something of a project but his work commitments prevented him from doing very much with it. Carmen, who has an eye for interior design, has spent a lot of time over the years making the house into a beautiful home for the family. When Carmen's grandmother died in 2013, she left Carmen a legacy of 50,000 Euros. Carmen had no hesitation in using the money to fund renovation work on the house and landscaping for the garden. The property is now worth around 150,000 Euros more than when Carmen moved in.

There have been tensions in the couple's relationship for months. Last night Escamillo came home drunk, switched on the light in the couple's bedroom and refused to allow Carmen to sleep whilst he poured forth a stream of criticism. There then followed an altercation during which Carmen hit Escamillo. He has told her this morning that he expects her to leave the house by the end of the week.

Carmen comes to your office wishing to know what her rights are in the event of terminating the cohabitation.

Questions to consider:

All questions should be considered from the perspective of opposite-sex and same-sex relationships.

1. What prospect does Carmen have of recovering what she has contributed, both directly and indirectly, to the house and what, if any, would be the legal basis for such a claim? Specifically, would the concept of trusts come into play in your jurisdiction?
2. What prospect does Carmen have of being compensated for loss of earnings and loss of earning capacity and what, if any, would be the legal basis for such a claim?
3. What can Carmen expect from Escamillo by way of financial support for the children and how would this be quantified? Can she anticipate (a) basic maintenance, (b) nursery/school fees, (c) the cost of retaining Juanita, (d) anything else?
4. What can Carmen expect from Escamillo by way of financial support for herself, and for how long?
5. What types of orders can a court make in a case such as this? Could a court, for example, order a transfer of property or pension sharing?
6. What can Carmen expect from Escamillo in terms of accommodation for herself and the children?
7. Given the couple's close connections with two jurisdictions, is there the prospect of a claim for Carmen in each of the jurisdictions concerned and, if so, on what basis? What constraints, if any, are there in relation to applicable law?
8. What legal protection (if any) would be afforded Carmen in relation to her occupation of the family home?

SATURDAY 28th MARCH

09.00 – 10.30: Same sex parenting

The purpose of this session is to examine legislation and case law insofar as it relates to parental responsibility in same sex parenting cases. Pre-arranged round tables of participants in the conference representing different jurisdictions will deal with a practical case led by the panel.

Co- Chairs:

Jorge Marfil, Jorge A Marfil (Spain);

Stewart Leech, QEB Chambers (England);

Nigel Nicholls, Blanchfield Nicholls Partners (Australia).

CASE STUDY:

Facts:

Escamillo and Jose are both resident in your jurisdiction. They have been in a relationship for 6 years and have lived together for the last 5 years in a house they have bought in their joint names. They would like your advice in relation to their rights and obligations as a couple. Ideally, they would like to get married. They are also planning to enter a surrogacy agreement in which Escamillo will be the biological father. Their plan is that Escamillo will give up his career to spend at least the first few years at home looking after the baby.

They are undecided as to whether it should be a traditional surrogacy (i.e. where the surrogate will be biologically related to the child) or a gestational surrogacy (where there will be no biological link). If possible they would like to enter a surrogacy arrangement in their home jurisdiction although they are prepared to enter one in a foreign jurisdiction if necessary. They have heard that in some “fertility tourism countries” (India, Russian Federation, Ukraine, United States) the biological father may appear as the father of the newly born in his/her passport.

Questions to consider:

1. Is it possible to enter a surrogacy agreement in your jurisdiction?
2. If a surrogacy agreement is entered into abroad, will it be enforceable, void or prohibited in your jurisdiction?
3. What (if any) difference would it make to your answers to 1 and 2 if the surrogate mother is paid (commercial) or simply reimbursed for expenses (altruistic)?
4. What (if any) difference would it make to your answers to 1 and 2 if the surrogacy is traditional or gestational?
5. What can Escamillo and Jose do in your jurisdiction for each of them to become the legal parents of the new-born if (a) the surrogacy agreement took place in your jurisdiction and (b) it took place abroad?
6. If surrogacy is not really a viable option, can they adopt a child?
7. What are Escamillo and Jose’s financial rights and obligations as a cohabiting couple? What would happen if they split up after the baby is born in terms of the financial rights/obligations for (a) themselves and (b) the baby?
8. Can Escamillo and Jose get married in your jurisdiction? If they did, would they have the same financial rights and obligations as a heterosexual couple? If they cannot marry, what are their options in terms of acquiring greater financial rights now (in terms for example of being taxed as a couple, gaining access to pension rights etc) and in the event that they split up?
9. Escamillo and Jose have heard that they could move to another country temporarily and get married there. If they did so, would their marriage be recognised in your jurisdiction?
10. Jose has a successful business. Assuming he and Escamillo can marry, is he able to sign some sort of nuptial contract so that, in the event of divorce, the business will remain his alone?
11. Questions 1 to 6 above presuppose Escamillo and Jose both want to become parents. Would it make any difference if Escamillo wanted to enter a surrogacy arrangement as a single parent?

12. What would be the position in terms of parenting rights if your clients were Maria and Victoria, a female couple using IVF?
13. What would be the position if Maria wanted to enter a surrogacy arrangement as a single mother using her own eggs (she is unable to carry the child)?
14. What are the legal status and cost/compensation models of egg donation in your jurisdiction?
15. What is the position in your jurisdiction regarding three-parent babies (mitochondrial IVF)?
