Nimrita Dadlani is the Founder and CEO of Pivot, a legal AI company building “evidence intelligence” for family law teams. After going through her own divorce, she saw how time-consuming and expensive evidence handling can be. Pivot is a platform for family law firms that turns fragmented case material into verified, structured data.

Pivot brings together WhatsApps, emails, PDFs, bank statements, scans and notes into a single, searchable evidence map and timeline. It then produces clear, structured, fully cited reports and drafts that are auditable and easy to verify. Designed to sit alongside existing workflows, Pivot reduces the administrative load that absorbs fee-earner time, helping firms run matters more efficiently and deliver better client outcomes - so lawyers can focus on strategy, advice and advocacy, not admin.
