Profile

Renato has wide experience in dealing with financial disputes within divorce proceedings and following cohabitation, including cross-border financial remedy and enforcement cases, and in complex private law children's cases. Peers describe him as 'clever, resourceful and cool under pressure', commending his ability to 'turn over every stone to find the evidence needed.' Renato acts for and against leading international high net worth figures, and he also has an excellent reputation in the finance and professional sector in London.

Known for his tactical nous, he is highly recommended in the legal directories for his practice. Chambers UK highlights that Renato is respected for his expertise in matrimonial finance matters with trust and property issues and is 'an extremely proficient practitioner who is notable for his calmness' and having 'particularly good bedside manner with clients.'
